Art Crossings

- 1 Angel Edmonton crossing: The artwork is inspired by the technological and manufacturing heritage of the Edmonton area. Paying homage to the first solid-state colour televisions that were manufactured by Ferguson Plant. The vibrant colours of the crossing refer to the iconic BBC Test cards, and the structural grid references the architecture of the Regal Cinema built in 1934.
- Artist: Hive Studios: Artist Hive Studios (AHS) is a unique studio hub in Enfield that fosters the development of an artist's career, providing affordable studio spaces in a creative environment - a space run by artists for artists.
- 2 Edmonton Green crossing: The brief for the Edmonton crossing was to reflect the diversity of Edmonton in the illustration. Silhouettes would have been the obvious choice but instead I chose to draw facial outlines that overlapped into the patterns. The result is blocks of vibrant diverse colour and lines which reflects community spirit.
- Artist: Karen Cox: Karen Cox has been working in the creative field for over 20 years as a graphic designer. She's also a book designer, photographer and illustrator and adores typography. From an early age she's always enjoyed drawing and her love of colour, texture and pattern can be seen in the crossing design.
- 3 Enfield Town crossing: The artwork for this crossing represents the Alevi belief that life is formed from four elements - air (purple), fire (orange), water (blue) and earth (green). Pigeons or doves are holy in their culture and represent peace and freedom. These elements and symbols symbolise how diverse life is and how we need to think outside the box, represented by the purple pigeon in the upper right corner.

- Artist: Hasan Bulucek: Hasan Bulucek is a member of the British Alevi community. He is a visual artist, art teacher, illustrator and mural artist born in Ankara, Turkey. After moving to London, he studied creative media production. He is currently illustrating children's books and teaching art to a variety of age groups in British Alevi Federation.
- 4 Southgate crossing: A bright and cheery crossing which introduces something with the essence of nature into our urban landscape. The inspiration comes from knots in tree bark and the curving forms of onion layers which have been abstracted to create a striking aesthetic to spark imagination and inspire creativity. The rainbow-like colour scheme symbolises peace and hope and this artwork serves to remind us that hope and light follows even after the darkest of times.
- Artist: Dan Maier: Dan Maier's extraordinary design work ranges from painstakingly made intricate artwork to atrium scale pieces, with prestigious commissions for interiors, window displays, theatre and advertising. She's worked with the Hayward Gallery, the Royal Academy, The Old Vic, Liberty, Harvey Nichols and the Royal Festival Hall to name just a few. Dan has lived and worked in Southgate and Palmers Green for more than 20 years, setting up and running the Art Trail which put N13 and N14 on the map as a creative destination.
- 5 Palmers Green crossing: Changing Perspectives represents the diversity of the Palmers Green community, its openness and attitudes. The artwork incorporates the colours of Pride, BLM and neurodiversity, and the many greenspaces that allow us to relax and come together. From its distinct colours, interlocking tessellations and faces you can see from any direction that however different our outlook on life, we're living in the same community.
- Artist: Patrick Samuel: Patrick Samuel is an exhibiting artist and musician with autism and ADHD. Having returned to art after a 20-year break, he picked up painting and drawing again when he started his daily art therapy in December 2016. A time of prolific work as well as recognition followed, and Patrick has embraced his neurodiversity as a gift rather than seeing it as a disability; he's found his voice and his calling.

Art Hoardings

Three local artists living and working in Enfield have designed three different sections of hoarding around the development site of Meridian One in Upper Edmonton. Adam David, Karen Rubins and Duncan James worked with the local community to create designs representing the past, present and future of Upper Edmonton and Meridian Water.

1 Karen worked with year 6 Meridian Angel Primary school and her piece is located next to their school where their characters tell a literal story of the development of the place they live and study.

2 Adam worked with two local youth groups who focused on positivity and the themes contained the choice of paths to be followed and the future sustainability and diversity of place.

3 Duncan worked with a number of pupils from the West Lea School (supporting those with Learning Disabilities) and depicts sport, trains arriving at a station and a DJ playing music.

Ghost Signs

From the 1890s to the 1960s advertising would often be painted on the gable ends of property or occasionally on the slate tiles of a building. In the 1930s home owners could make extra money by renting out the gable end of their home to advertisers. These signs were painted onto the brickwork using an oil based paint which contained an amount of lead which enabled the paint to adhere to the brickwork, hence their survival today.

1 On the corner of Browning Road and Brodie Road, Enfield, EN2 0EJ is a well preserved 'ghost' that reads BUILDER & UNDERTAKER; FIRMING; SANITATION & DECORATION; 80 BROWNING RD TELEPHONE ENFIELD 2.

- 2 An out of the way sign is visible on the flank wall of 14 Granville Road, Bowes Park, N13 4RR. The sign overlooks the New River and the backs of the houses on the other side of the river. The sign reads C (or G) W. SHAW, & SON; REPAIRS OF ALL KINDS; BUILDER & DECORATOR.
- 3 On the front of 508 Herford Road, Enfield, EN3 5SS, above Hills Café, is a painted sign in good condition that reads: EATHILLS GOLD SEAL, Bread. The wording suggests that Hills was formerly a bakery.
- 4 A sign advertising Howis can be seen on the flank wall 331 Ordnance Road, Enfield, EN3 6HE. The original sign has at some date been over painted with a new sign for Howis. Across the top is the letter F... while HOWIS is written twice diagonally down the wall. At the top are the words GOLDEN (Brown). At the bottom is BOTH the ...B / of ... / FOR / HEALTH.
- 5 On the side of the 325 327 Fore Street Edmonton, N9 0PD is a worn sign that reads: RECORDER; EDMONTON; BICYCLES; SPECIALISTS; MOTOR... This may be a combination of two signs, one advertising a local paper, the other a cycle shop.
- 6 A modern example of painted advertising on the side of the Prestige Hair Salon, 153 Ordnance Road Enfield, EN3 6BE on the corner of Catsfield Road, EN3 6AE. A superb piece of modern artwork depicting three women sitting under hair driers, while on a front wall is a girl with long flowing hair.
- 7 On the wall of Pymmes Mews, between Pymmes Road and Moffat Road, Palmers Green, N13 4PF, is a sign that reads: MISS M'S / BAKERY / Est. 1890. WHOLESALE FLOUR & C. This harks back to the days when a bakery was on the site.
- 8 On the corner of Windsor Road and 406 Green Lanes may be a newer sign that has been painted over the older sign. The original sign read ARMY CLUB and had the head of what was probably a soldier smoking a cigarette. Over this, in white, the word THE has been painted.
